Les Jeunes Commis Competition

Are you a young cook, not more than 26 years of age by September of this year?

Are you ready to demonstrate your skills and gain prestige and recognition?

The oldest culinary society in the world is holding a competition to support you and your career!

Every year, young talented cooks, nominated by their local Chaîne Chapter, who have completed an application with a short essay, are given a market basket and four hours to create a three course meal.

Competitions are held at the regional, national, and international levels, and have been featured on the TV Food Network and CNN. Although the competition itself is not open to viewing by the public, contestants are evaluated by a panel of judges and the results are released to the media.

All participants will receive a diploma and a medal. The Regional winner will receive a silver medal, a one year free membership from the Bailliage of the United States, will be inducted into the Society as Regional Young Chef Rôtisseurs during the award ceremony, and continue to the next level of the competition.
