Limited availability, RSVP by noon on April 13, 2023 (or until sold out)

Join the Bailliage of Greater Washington as we gather to enjoy a spectacular feast prepared by Chef Javier Fernandez. Known as Kinamot, this elaborate meal is served on a bed of banana leaves and white rice and is typically eaten with your hands! It is a communal food experience which embodies the "food is love" ethos of the Philippines. The feast will be paired with authentic Filipino beer.

"The name tells you what to order...slow-cooked pork that gets its savor from lemongrass, pineapple and garlic ... its sound effects from mahogany skin that breaks apart like glass."
Tom Sietsema, Washington Post

Due to the great variety of food included in the Kinamot we cannot accommodate any special dietary requests for this event. The meal includes roasted pork, fish, chicken, shellfish (shrimp), peanuts, vegetables, and various sauces among numerous other elements. Chef Fernandez will join us to discuss his cuisine and answer your questions. Due to the small size of the restaurant, we are limited to 20 people. We will have the restaurant to ourselves that evening. Please join the waiting list if you find the event is sold out when you try to register. We may be able to schedule a second Kinamot if there is sufficient demand.
